
Security and Privacy Policy

Collection of personal data

The website of the Office of the Secretary of State for Administrative Modernisation can be generally visited without the need to provide any personal information.

Only the 'Contact us' page requires users to provide us with personal data, viz. their identity and contact so that a reply may be provided or their individual case followed up.

Under no circumstances is any personal data, including identification data, location, etc. stored.

The information supplied is used exclusively by the website of the Office of the Secretary of State for Administrative Modernisation for the aforementioned purposes.

Information that is automatically stored

Whenever users access our site, some technical information is automatically stored. Such information allows us to learn more about the profile of our users and to make the website more functional.

The information that is automatically stored does not identify users individually. It includes:

- Domain (xxx.pt);
- IP address;
- The browser and operating system used to access the website;
- Date and time;
- Pages visited;

Links

From the website of the Office of the Secretary of State for administrative Modernisation, users can access other websites via the links posted here. We cannot guarantee that such websites adhere to the same privacy policy as our website.